

Have Fun

Fun has many faces to suit everyone
It leaves no one hanging alone
Without having an enjoyable thing to do
Even when doing strange things
You think should never be done

Fun comes at anytime and place
At night, in the morning
On the shores of a little lake
Deep in a rain forest
Under a hot, glaring sun

Fun is like a wintry sun
Always shy hiding its face
It shines, it tires, and it retires
And when life is gone
The fun will be done

Time will soon come
To wash dishes
Change diapers
Work for nights without rest
And worry about things to come

Life is short for everyone

So sing, dance and have fun

Enjoy being with the one

You dare to say, I love you

Before life is done

Soon you will have fun

Working long hours

Writing books and novels

Running happily after a little kid

You call him, grandson

Think, dream and have fun

At night, in the morning

Without fear of the glaring sun

Be different and embrace life

And live it like no other one

Run and make life fun

Before it turns a blind eye

And makes us memories

For others to toy with

And relive our fun
