

Love and Life

If you miss a chance in life, you should not feel bad or lose hope, or blame yourself for what had happened, even if the responsibility is yours; life will not fail to give you a second chance. However, the second chance that life will give you, might be your last one; therefore you should be alert, always looking for it in order not to miss it.

Life is too short for anyone to experience a true love. On the other hand, no love can satisfy and enrich a full life. Therefore, no opportunity to live and enjoy life should be wasted; and no invitation to sail in a love boat should be missed; no life can be truly enjoyable without love, and no love can touch all of man's senses and satisfy all desires. Each life has its own special conditions to be lived; and each love has its own taste and charm that make it special; thus unable to satisfy every taste and enrich every life.

Every old picture that we have is a mirror, when you look at it, you do not see the images it contains only; you see also the moment when the picture was taken. Old pictures bring back old memories and make you relive the past and feel its taste. Therefore, every picture has to be good; it should express happy feelings when taken, and evoke happy memories when viewed.

Mohamed Rabie

www.yazour.com

November 2008